AN INDIAN STORY.

AN INDIAN STORY.

One day in the spring of 1856 I was Indulging myself by spending a leisure hour in the gallery of Robert S—I, a dear old artist and whilom neighbor, since gone to the "Land o'the Leat."

Among Philadelphia's sons of genius the name of Robert S—I deserves a high niche in the temple of fame. His works were exquisitely true to nature, and as a landscape painter he was unexcelled.—A poet, too, of nu mean degree; this showed in his paintings, and spritualized the whole picture, whalever the subject might be.—As the artist was engaged with a sitter, I was the artist was engaged with a sitter, I was left to ramble where I 1sted, and I poactrated a remote receas before unvesited. I there found a picture which rive ted my attention and aroused my curfosity. Sitting before me was a female figure decked in the gaudy trappings of an Indian queen. The face showed the immobility and referre characteristic of the ravage life and race, together with the air of quiet repose and command of one accustomed to obedience from those around her.

Strangely at variance with the Indian dress and attitude was the face of most decided Saxon type—in fact, a perfect blonde, yet handsome, although past the meridian of life.

The lother figure of the picture was that of

of life.

The other figure of the picture was that of a man evidently older than the woman—tall, stately and homisome, but with a sad weary look on the face which resembled the first as much as a civilized being's can one who is otherwise.

I had just resolved to ask of Mr. 3—t

an explanation of this picture, whon I found him at my cloor. "Ah," said ho, "you have found my picture of the Williams family, have you?"

I told him of the interest which it had laspired, and asked a solution of the myslery, "Why," said the old gentleman, "have you never heard their story? I thought every one familiar with it. How prone we are to feel as though all must know what we are familiar with. These two, Lewis, and Rachel Williams, were orphaned by the massacre at Wyanning. The girl was carried away by the Judians. Theirs was indeed a said history. Come back into the studio, and I will gire you the outlines of it as told me years ago by Lewis himself, when sitting for that picture."

I followed my friend into his sanctum, and the following is the tale as told me:

Lewis said his recellections of the spring, and summer of 1778 were quite clear and distinct, as he was at that time almost eight years old. His parcots lived with their family in the beautiful Wyoming valley. They had been much slatened by the rumor of the advance of Breat and his hidian allies in that direction, but Mr. Williams thought it would be as affe to renain quietly at home as to seek refuge in the forts, for he thought, truly, as the event proved, that the forts could not held out long, and that there would be a terrible doom for those who ware forced to surfacie."

"One beautiful morning, late in June," said Lewis, "my father ard his men had gone to the fields in gather the rither har yeat; myself and my little sister Rackel were out playing at the wood pite—I was cutting sticks, when the little one came and held a twig under my as, saying. "Brieddy, cut for Rachie. I did so, but to my greati distress, the keen blane slipped and cut the little thumb off at the first joint. I caught the child in my arous nad outered no word of reproach for what she saw unalterable, but quietly bound up the poor little wounded hand, and saothed the little child to skep, not before the latter had kissed me and said, "Rachie not angry with brudder: h of death was done there too. I beheld it all from the flicket in the garden, where the instinct of self-preservation had led me to conceal myself. My beautiful mother lay recking in her bloed, her infant in her arms dead also; but my dear little sister Rachel I saw carried off, still sleeping, in the arms of a splwart indian. When they had finished their work of destruction by burning the pleasant home they had devastated, they withdrew to seek fresh fields of carnage. I then left my place of concealment, and, sleading cautiously to the river's bank, crept into the little bost always moored under the treen there. I pushed silently out into the stream. After this all seems a horrid dream, for I know not how many hours, or maybap days. The terrors of this day had brought on delirium. I seemed flosting in a sea of blood; the trees on the river banks seemed spectral. Indians pursuing me; the clouds, the figures of my murdered parents ever becknoting me upward. To attempt any description of the little time in variant leaveners. figures of my murdered parents ever beckoning me upward. To attempt any description at this time is vain—language is tee feeble for the reality. I floated on aid on, with no longer definite purpose, atthoughmy design had been in starting to reach my uncle, then at Sunbury. Consciousness at last descried me, and I recollect nomore until after many weeks I awoke tofind myselfiniteed with my uncle, my dear mother a brother. Most providentially they had seen and recognized the boat as it floated on the river, and on their reaching it had-mother's brother. Most providentially they had seen and recognized the boat as it floatied on the river, mud on their reaching it had found the shreething it had found the shreething it had found the shreething that told the rest. I came back slowly to beatth. I need months clapsed before I was able to our my contains in any exercise. I no longer felt any chill is interest in anything. My one object in life was to recover my sister—all that was left to me of our unhappy household band. My uncle took many excursions among the Indians, as soon as peace was declared, hoping to get some clue to the lost one; and whenever prisoners were to be ransemed he made most dilligent inquires; but all was of no avail, until finally he gave up in despair, feeling that Bachel had surely perished. I never felt ed for one instant. I knew in my heart that somewhere on the green earth my slater lived, and every succeeding year but increased my determination to find her.

"It grow to man's estate at last, and thes I began to revolve the measures to be taken to complete my putpose. "It is vain to attempt to give you even the outlines of my wanderings. I placed spyself in communion with the Indian agent.

myself in communion with the Indian agent in every part of the country. Wherever I heard of a white country. Wherever I heard of a white country went. I wandere! through the snows of the far North, and among the minitic swamps of Florida; I hunted the buildad over the pratics of the far West, or lived in the wigwams of the Indian Territory. Again and again I was teluded into the belief that I was about to succeed, but I ever faced a disappointment, face I was sorely tempted to resign the Juce I was sorely tempted to resign the search and accept the bappiness within my reich, for on visiting my unce, I saw by the joy in dear Ruth's eyes, how happy I might be but for this. I would not trust myself again, and for years I was a wander er on this broad continent.

REWPORT DAILY NEWS,

TUESDAY, December 17, 1967.

SECRETARY STANTON'S CASE. In giving the Senate his reasons for the suspension of Mr. Stanton from the office substantially the following statements. "The President, "for considerations of a high clieracter," requested Secretary Stan-ton to resign his office, and Mr. Stan-ton, in reply, qualing the phrase of the President, said that "(considerations of a high clieracter," alone had induced him to conlinue at the head of the department, and constrained him not to resign the office of Secretary of War before the next meeting secretary of war beared the first meeting of Congress, affilied the President says was not merely a declination of compilance with the request for his resignation, but a defined. Whatever propriety there might be in the expression of his opinion to atti-cit, one thing was certain, it was official migeouduct to say the lenst of it to parade them before his superior officer, and showed if the officer of the proper properties.

In addition to the above recited ground of In addition to the above recited ground of the Secretary why he did not resign, he defined the President's right to remove him. But, the President says that under Mr. Stanlon's sense of they he could not rofer to the law creating the War Department, for that confers on the President, the right to ground the head of the Department. The only other law under which Mr. Stanton could plead excentation of his conduct was their relation to the terres to effect the second could be sent to the terres to effect the second could be sent to the terres to effect the second could be sent to the terres to effect the sent the sent the sent to the terres to effect the sent the sent terres to effect the sent terres the sent terres to effect the sent terres to effect the sent terres to effect the sent terres th was that in relation to the tenure of office. Nothing in that law compelled him to remish in office. He was free at any time to a want of proper respect and dignity for the forney General. Mr. Stanton's condemna-tion of the law, the President says, was most elaborate and emphalic. Some ref-erence is made to the circumstances under which the President retained his predecessor's enbinet, including Mr. Stanton, and he remarks, as to the proper mode of reconstructing the Southern States, all the mem bers were in parfect accord with himself.

The Senate is not well satisfied with the President's reasoning, and may reinstate the Secretary, in which case it is said he will at once resign the office.

Congress and the Mormone.

e The following is a synonsis of the bill re ported from the committee on territories to regulate the selection of jurous in Utah, and for other purposes. The bill provides that the militia of the territory shall be organized and disciplined in such manner and at such time as the governor shall direct. -The twelch section provides that marriages in the territory may be solumnized only by justices of Supreme Court or by justices of peace duly elected and qualified, in their proper townships or precincts, or by any priest or minister of the Gospal regularly ordsized and settled or established in said territory, between parties competent to enter into the marriage contract. Polygamy is expressly forbidden, and all marriages within the degrees of consauguinity within which marriages are prohibited to the residents of the territory, are declared to be inshall intermerry with each other, or who shall commit adultery or fornication with each other, shall be punished by impris a months. Persons who shall willingly aid or rites of Mormonism known as "scaling" or spiritual marriage, with intent to counna conviction thereof before a court of coinpetent jurisdiction, shall be punished as shore, and all persons celebrating or solemnizing such rites, or performing such riles or ceremony, shall be punished as last aforesaid, and by a fine of at least $1000 each and imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary for at least two years. It shall not be lawful for the Mormon church, or his officers or members, as such, to grant or solumnize marriages. There are other provisions on this and other subjects.

The New York Journal of Commerce does not think much of Mr Seward's par chase of the Danish Antilles, and hope Congress will not furnish the money. The Journal says: It was a very clever files of Mr. Sewant's-that plebiseite dodge, if we may be allowed the expression-quite of ter the manner of Napoleon the Third-and It is very pleasant to know that the St Thomases guali towards us. But we do not gush lowerds them in return. It is painful to say it, but their love is not reciprocated here. We pity their sufferings, we will send them corn, wine and oil, we would has reciprocity treaties with them to any extent, but we don't want to catch either their contagious fevers, or their carthquakes, Let us be friends—the more distant the better-but nothing more."

Mr. Frank E. Hazzard, steward of brig Henry C. Brooks, of Tall River, died of cholers, at Savannah, on the 9th. He was a native of Westport, was about forly years of see, and leaves four motherless children. A letter from one of the brig's consiguees says that Mr. H. had the best of care and medical allendance, but all in vain.

The fall River Fire

An extra from the office of the Fall River News gives the details of the burning of the American Print Works, on Sunday, The fire was discovered in the machine room about half past three, in the afternoon, and spread rapidly into the new unoccupied main building, and after hursting through the roof, swept down through the successive stories until nothing was left of this part but blackthed walls and smouldering rules, The flooring was of hard pine, and the dames seemed to eat through them as if they were more paper, sending up a dense volume of smoke and shower of sparks for hundreds of yards, creating such an intense heat that heavy snow-drifts in the vicinity disappeared in a few moments and the walls of the neighboring buildings were as hot as furnaces. The clicking of the glass as the flames burst through window after window. the crash of falling stone and timbers, and the heavy billows of smoke and fire which rose high in the air, made the scene one that will never be forgotten by the speciators. The fire raged fiercely about four hours, and at the end of that time nothing was left of the beautiful structure of Secretary of War, the President makes but a sail pile of rains. The print works building was ustly the pride of Fall River, and was probably the finest structure of its kind in the country. It has been in course of erection for nearly a year, and the last of the windows were put in but a week ago. The building presented an unbroken front on Water street of 406 feet long by 60 feet wide, three stories high, surmounted by a French roof. The entire front was of beautiful ashler work with arched windows. A single granite pillar, two and a half feet square ten and a quarter feet high, with cap and base, occupied the space between each window. There were thirty-nine of these nillars and thirty eight windows

In the tear of this main building were four wings, varying in length from about surenty-five to one hundred and forty feet each, and three stories high. Three of these ells were roofed the same as the main building; the fourth was in process of erection. The principal part of the old works were two stone buildings, each about one bundred and fifty feet long. The north one, containing printing inschines, was destroyed together with the new structure. The works had six printing machines, and turned on resign it.

The lenure of office hill did not pass without notice. Every member of the Cabbet was consulted upon the rubject, particularly the Attorney General and Mr. Stanton, the latter formerly having held the office of Attorney General. Mr. Stanton's condennation, the catallishment would have contained the latter formerly having held the office of Attorney General. Mr. Stanton's condennation, the catallishment would have contained the latter formerly having held the office of Attorney General. tained seventeen machines, printing some four thousand two hundred and fifty pieces or about one hundred and ninety thousand yards per day, employing some twelve or fourleen hundred hands.

Many of the carpenters employed upon the building lost their chests of tools; and about five hundred persons are thrown out of employment in addition to the two lumdred who suffered similarly by the burning of the Globe works. It is feared some o the mills that supplied the Print Works with printing cloths may be stopped and thus add to the number of the unemployed.

The buildings were insured to the amount of $95,000. Of this $20,000, in the Liverpool Company, $25,000 in New York $20,000 in Hattford, and $30,000 in Prov

Greece and Crete. There is ground for supposing that the King of Greece is encouraged by his Russian experiences to give additional support to the Candian insurgents,-the Russians promising probably to come in and shelter him from the consequences. His government continues to command a large works ing majority in the Chamber, which is a good as well as novel sign. There is in Greece only one Chamber,-a House of Deputies elected directly by the nation .-Since the opening of the session 120 Deputies, out of the 170 of which the Chambe is composed, have voted for the government. cestuous and void, and such parties who It is possible that this unanimity has a cause which the "protectors" of the kingdom would not approve, for it may be the union which even the flightiest of countries ment at hard labor in the penitentiary for sometimes exhibit when an undertaking of not more than fifteen years nor less than six vital import is projected. However divided notition) narries in Greeco may be as to inand assist in or be present at the ceremony ternal affairs, they are one as to their duty to those of their race in subjection to Turkey. Austria and France are said by one tenance, encourage and give effect to the authority to have guarar end Turkey her same, shall be deemed guilty of crime, and present territory, but the statement requires more of authority than has yet been given it. We see in the French "blue book" atlusions to the Greek problem, in a somewhat different sense. In one instance, decided injustice is done to the Turks, according to French principles, for the French government complain of the Porte's refusal to "consult the populations" of Crete,being exactly the thing Fra ce will not do or allow to be done at Rome.

THE CHICAGO CANTLE YARDS. One of the wonders of the city of Chicago is the great depot for cattle. It lies a little south of the city, and has the name of the Union Stock Yards. There the immense number of animals that come from the rich prairies of the West to furnish food for millions are unleaded, fed for a few days, bought, shipped in cars for the markets of the East, or driven away to the packing houses in the city; and a complete town, with a vail ho tel, churches, stores, bank, &c., is maintained by the great business of supplying the meat markets of the country. During the month of November there were received at these yards three hundred and thirtythree thousand six hundred and seventy eight head of live stock, or on an average, twelve thousand eight hundred and thirtyfour a day-enough to feed a million of two of persons daily."

It is said that the Joint Retrenchment Committee, now in session at the Treasury Department, will make a report favoring the reduction of the force employed therein to at least two thirds of the present number.

By this reduction between five and six hundred persons will be dismissed from the Department. This Secretary has decided to dismiss a number of female clerks completed to the second to outside a number of remove the constitution of the most public streets, to ployed in the training bureaus, and about clean of their side walks, in times of great start will be dismissed before the first of January next.

STORMS AND FIREA .- A fire is a calemity specially when it attacks a community endered, by any circumstances, powerless to use against it such means as human in genuity has devised to keep it in its place genuity has devised to keep it in its place at a "good servant" and prevent its usuarping that of a "bad master." Sold by all Druggists. various cities of our land from Pottland to New Orleans, yet we all feel that the intmunity of the past is no guarantee for the future, and that a conflagration at any moment, is not only possible, but not improb able. But, when, as at present, our streets are blockaded with snow, and it is Impos sible to convey our engines from one locality to another, the imminency of our danger from fire is instinctive to our whole community. This is observable in the saintation with which our people often greet each other, and which at such times and in times of unusually high winds, is heard often on our streets: "what an awful time for a fire." This instinctive dread at such times is the most natural feeling possible to a ommenity situated as we are.

These things being true, we have thought not improper to suggest one or two precautionary measures as best adapted to prerent our suffering a calamity like that which I will sail from any part of my Entire has sometimes befallen some of our Sister cities of the Union.

First, then, we would suggest that the authorities, if it be practicable, cause all persons living on the mest public streets, to show slower, clear to the curb instead of conti making merely a sheep-path, and this This however may be impracticable of en forcement-and we therefore suggest. Secondly, that our worthy fire department Cause to be made and fitted for each engine minutes notice, and made in a double acti so as to enable the machine to be turned as easily and in as small a place as when on wheels. This will obviate, in a measure, our great danger in the winter season, and can be easily done at no great outlay. In all our neighboring cities, this method has been adopted, of overcoming the difficul-ties of alrects, when blockaded by snow. These suggestions we make most respectfully to those whose duty it is to take charge of these matters, in a spirit juspired solely by a reaso of our great danger from fire at such seasons as this, Attempted Robbery in Providence.

Feniauliu la England. The explosion in London, which is supposed to have been a Penian attempt, has called forth a storm of Indignation against those agitators. Great excitement was ocessioned, and nearly all the London daily papers have had editorial articles on the explosion, accompanied by stormy denunciations of the Feniaus. The opinion is prevalent that the time for leniency toward them is past. The Times is particularly decided in its remarks, and closes a lengths article with the following words: "Let there be no more elemency for Fenjanism. which is a mixture of treason and assassin-

New York, December 16.—The steamer City of Boston bridge European advices to the 5th mat. The main features of the news have been covered by cable telegrams.

Concerning the Alabama Claims, the London Dally News remarks: The difficulty raised so granujuouly, by Mr. Seward on Lord Stanley a necession of office still obstructs a scuttement, and then proceeds to sustain Lord Starley's position, already sustain Lord Stanley's position, already published.

The Dally News concludes its citicle by expressing the hope that "the question between the two countries may be settled before the Democrats, the bliter enemies of England, come into office at Washington."

Brick Nows Rents,

A report from Havana is to the purpor that Spain has offered to sell Cubs and Porto Rico to the United States for one handred and fifty million dollars. - General Montez, who was confined in prison in Havif, was murdered by the jailer heating out his bruins, ... St. Thomas was crowded with shipwreeked sailors. - The scheme of emigration from the Southern States to government of the island refused aid to a line of steamships for the purpose .- The Providence skating rink was opened, Sat ord 15 evening, with a promenante concert and a "skating carnival." -- Calvary Haptist Church, Washington, was burned, Sunday morning.-A Unitarian society, in Washlogion, closed its church against a colored Sunday school, without notice, and the scholars shoul in the portico and sang their songs, Sunday. - The funeral demonstrations in honor of the executed Fenlans were prevented on Sanday in all the cities of England. by the authorities. -No proof of guilt was was found against the persons accested for the Clerkenweil explosion.
